New Procedure Demonstrates Galaxy Principle

EVOLUTION OF A GALAXY-This photo sequence shows the evolution of a miniature eight-armed galaxy formed by the simultaneous discharge of eight "plasma guns," a development of Dr. Winston H. Bostick of Stevens Institute of Technology, Hoboken, N. J. The arms of the spiral are traced by plasmoids-pellets of ionized matter-as they travel across a magnetic field toward a center at speeds up to 450,000 miles an hour. This is about the speed that stars travel in heavenly galaxies. The action simulates in the laboratory in a fraction of a second what takes place in perhaps a billion years during the formation of a geaxy in outer space. Galaxies are clusters of billions of stars of which the Milky Way, the galaxy that includes the earth, is an example. (NEA

For weeks, the womenfolk had been setting aside jars of their best home-canned fruits and vegetables. The menfolk had been gathering up equipment and farming gadgets they know Lajos Pusztay couldn't possibly have brought across the ocean with him and held a special sort of "welcome shower" in their own way. The children of the church planned a cake and ice cream section of the party for the Pusztay youngsters and they even planned some games hey can play together where 'talk' won't be necessary at first. they won't be able to understand each other's language.

Mrs. Bryan said through com munications from the Church World Service as plans for bringing this family here were being completed - she and Rev. Bryan learned some of the background of the Pusztay family.

During the Hitler rule of Hungary, they were forced to go along when the factory where the father worked was transplanted in full, to a new site in Germany He was put into forced slave labor and the family followed. Then after World War II they were shunt ed from labor camp to labor camp and eventually fell under the communistic regime. During this time two of the older children were sent to refugee camps in Holland. For the last ten years, then, Lajos and Irene Pusztay have fought to reunite their family and to come America-the land of which they dreamed. Once they had papers to emigrate to Australia and were just ready to leave when their official documents were stol en and their place on the quota was canceled. Then they came under the wing of Church World Service-and were chosen to become the adopted family of Rev and Mrs. David Bryan of Chicago who were offering their family farm in Missouri as a haven.

Knowing that many times in the ast ten years, the Pusztays have had to choose between food and fuel-when their rations were issued-Margie Bryan says she better understood the warmth of the andclasp of the European mother when they arrived last Sunday She knew, too, the gratefulness be hind their eyes when she waved hem off on the last leg of their

What's it Got that Everyone's After?

WE figured folks would go for the 57 Buick—and big.

But we sure didn't figure this-the most rousing reception we've ever seen in all our years of selling new Buicks.

We're getting more enthusiastic talk along with the signed orders-than ever before. And, neighbor, if you want to know why-listen:

This '57 Buick has that sleek low-sweep styling that today's moderns want-and it's here in extra-long measure, in the lowest Buick yet.

It has the room they want - for Buick's new wide-frame chassis permits a sports-car silhouette with more interior roominess than even last year's spacious Buicks.

It has newness everywhere, and newness that's wanted ...

A smart new panoramic windshield of vaster dimensions and greater visibility.

400 SOUTH OSAGE

The sweet, solid surety of a new "nested" ride. A brilliant new handling and cornering and levelized braking that come of an ingenious newball-joint suspension. It even has the modern answer for today's driving - a new Safety-Minder* that watches your miles-per-hour for you.

But even more important, this rakish sweep of automobile has a new kind of instant response-and that's the biggest reason for the soaring popularity of the newest Buick yet.

For here is performance-smooth as spun silk - unleashed by a totally new V8 engine 364 cubic inches big, and with the highest compression, torque and horsepower in Buick annals.

And here, to deliver that might, is the power-pitch action of an advanced new Variable Pitch Dynaflow.* A Dynaflow of such instantaneous obedience, such smooth and versatile control in "Drive"the need for "Low" is virtually ended.

In all truth, you've never bossed a car so keenly alive, so smooth in motion, so solid, in feel. It's ahead of its time, ahead of the industry - even ahead of your great expectations.

Come check up on all this for yourself. Come drive this shoulder-high sweetheart with the strong he-and-she appeal. Come be our guest-today.

*New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflow is the only Dynaflow Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century-optional at modest extra cost on the Special. Safety-Minder standard on Roadmaster, optional other Series.

Omer West, program chairman, then introduced Mrs. Carl Schrader, director of music at Smith-Cotton High School, who presented a group from her mixed chorus who sang the following Christmas songs, "Carol of the Bells," "Jingle Bells," "Silent Night" and the closing number by the girls sextette, "We Wish You a Merry Christmas." This was a particularly delightful program with the blending of the young voices of boys and girls.

Dr. A. L. Walter was then introduced by the program chairman and told of his trip behind the Iron Curtain last summer, show ing many pictures taken while there. Among the countries visited by Dr. Walter were Finland, Russia, Poland and East Germany, and a few pictures of each country were shown. Most of the pictures, however, were of Russia.

Dr. Walter had numerous pictures of the people of Russia, most of them dressed in drab clothes. He had pictures of the various types of work the women were doing, which also included farm work, and said that everybody worked but they played a little. too, and showed two or three pic-

Movie Actor Enjoys Life As a Squire

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (-The scene was outer space, created on a movie stage by a backdrop of stars and knee-high carbon dioxide clouds.

Sitting amid the fumes were actors portraying the heroes and villains of history. They were witnesses before the high judge (Sir Cedric Hardwicke) in the case of whether mankind should be destroyed by the super-H bomb. Mr. Scratch, played by Vincent Price in a devilish goatee, argued the affirmative.

Opposing him was the spirit of man, enacted by none other than Ronald Colman. And as you listened to his patrician, slightly nasalized tones, you conclude that mankind seldom had a more convincing advocate.

With the exception of a one-day stint in "around the World in 80 Days," this is the first film work by Colman in over six years. And even this one will occupy him only eight days or so. I asked him why he didn't do more.

"Oh, I'm not in the big time any more," he said with a twinkle in his eye.

I assured him that was false. His prestige and style of acting will always be big time.

"The studios don't seem to be doing the sort of thing I used to do in films," he added. "There have been scripts, of course, but none of them was anything that I wanted to do."

Gray-haired but still dashingly handsome at 65, Colman appeared to be enjoying his not-so-hurried existence. Most of the time he leads a squire's life with his wife Benita Hume and their daughter Juliet in the comfortable town of Santa Barbara, 100 miles north. Occasionally he comes to Hollywood for work.

"I like to do a television film now and then," he remarked. "I'm going to do a G.E. Theater and some others. Live TV? No, not for me. That's for stage actors. It's been a long time since I was on the stage. And I wasn't very successful at it."

DALLAS (A) - Mrs. Eugene Hague stunned the courtroom at her husband's murder trial yesterday by sobbing out from the witness stand she was the one who had done the killing. But the jury convicted Hague and sentenced him to 37 years in prison. Mrs. Hague, 44, was arrested and charged with murder as soon as she finished her testimony. The jury's verdict left a legal tangle. No one would undertake to say immediately what would happen to the murder charge against Mrs. Hague. She is in jail. Hague, 43, was on trial for the slaying of Ernest Allbrite, 27. He was shot to death Aug. 26 at a party attended by the Hagues, the Allbrites and two other couples at the home of Charles Tibbs. An argument broke out. Hague had

"Mrs. Allbrite slapped my husband and they fell to the floor scuffling," Mrs. Hague testified. "Both Allbrites had my husband on the floor and were kicking and beating him. He was all bloody. "My husband's gun was lying on the floor. Allbrite reached for the gun but I grabbed it. He told me: 'Ill kill you.' I shot him. He kept coming at me. I shot him again."

Mrs. Hague indicated the trouble started when "Allbrite told my husband Tibbs had said something about me.'

WINTERS CUMMINS GREGSON Got His String Back But No Fish

BERKELEY SPRINGS, W.Va. Police officer A. Brooke Dyche sure had a fine day's fishing. He baited his hook with sweet corn, dropped it in the Cacapon River and came up with six fish, all on a fish stringer.

The stringer had the hands of J. F. Kidwell and E. W. Van Dyke and they gave up after grappling for it. In the barber shop the next day Kidwell met Dyche who began talking about his crazy luck. Well, Dyche brought Kidwell back his stringer, but the fish, they were eaten the previous day.

The energetic, graying former Kansas schoolteacher, now in her fourth year as president of the national Woman's Christian Temperance Union, said today she is a reformer because she "just grew up in the job."

She is now directing WCTU efforts toward drying up holiday drinking - particularly at Christmas office parties.

"The Christmas drinking party has increasingly become a national evil," she says. "It adds to the growing paganism with which commercial interests use the birthday of Christ for gain."

She cites results of a National Safety Council survey indicating O'Neals Make that drinkers were involved in 55 per cent of the traffic accidents last Christmas - compared with an average of 26 per cent for the

The Malady Is Worse Than the Medicine

The calendar season is upon us. New in December, many of which are ringed for special events.

Among the important dates for Pettis pasteurized milk and milk products. County livestock and dairy people to remember is the Saturday night, December 22, deadline for signing brucellosis eradication petitions.

Since the kickoff meeting in Sedalia when the proposal was explained by federal and state veterinarians, petitions have been circulated in each school district or township subdivision. There is little more than a week left to get this job done so the petitions can be checked with the county clerk to see if at least 65 per cent of the people owning 65 per cent of the cattle want county-wide testpublican party won votes last November by might lead men to slaughter. Doubtless therepromising liberation to the satellite nations is fore Congress will want to see whether this an interesting question sure to be probed by Congress in January. Already Senators Humphrey of Minnesota and Neuberger of Oregon have indicated they will press for such an investigation.

Ab Herman, the astute and able director of the minorities division of the Republican national committee has had some interesting things to say on this point. Mr. Herman unquestionably did an amazing job of swinging the foreign-language vote to Ike and from a cold political viewpoint deserves credit. A few weeks ago, prior to the tragic bloodshed in Hungary, he was willing to take credit.

He then explained to newsmen that he had figured as early as 1952 that it was important for the Republicans to swing the big mass of votes among Poles, Slovaks, Italians, Hungarians and East Europe generally away from the Democrats where they had steadfastly voted ever since the early days of Roosevelt. So he developd the technique of taunting the Democrats with the Yalta agreement pertaining to the satellites and simultaneously pledged liberation of the satellites.

"During the 1956 campaign," Herman further explained, "we pinned George Kennon on Stevenson."

Kennon is the former ambassador to Russia under Truman who advocated the policy of containment-namely, that the United States couldn't afford war with Russia but should contain Russia and wait until the huge bloc of nations she had bitten off gave her political indigestion.

"We figured," said Herman, "that if revolt did take place behind the Iron Curtain we could tell 'em this was all Ike's doing.' "What about the fact that you don't liberate 'em?" Mr. Herman was asked.

"Well, it's kind of coldblooded," Mr. Herman admitted. "but it's the way you win votes." Visited later, after the Hungarian bloodshed. Mr. Herman was not so talkative. He did talk about the big swing of the foreign-language group over to Eisenhower, and he felt that they would remain in the Republican column. He was also willing to have newspapermen inspect literature which the Republican national committee had circulated among Poles. Hungarians, Czechs, et al. Part of it was in the languages of those nationalities. Part consisted in editorials from foreign-language newspapers and showed photos of Eisenhower with American citizens of Czech, Polish, Hungarian descent taken on the White House steps.

One Republican booklet was captioned "Republican policy of liberation to turn the tide against communism."

Another, on the GOP national platform, contained significant promises to the satellites as

"Our own initiative the political aspects of NATO are being developed. Instead of merely being a military alliance, NATO will provide a means for coordinating the policies of the member states on vital matters such as the reunification of Germany and the liberation of the satellites."

Since NATO is a military organization, a pledge to use it behind the Iron Curtain went further than any pledge ever given by either political party in the past.

Preference May Be Given 'Exotic' Over Atomic Fuels

By DOUGLAS LARSEN NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON-The Air Force's atomic plane project may have been shot down or seriously damaged by the recent record longdistance, non-stop flights of those B-52 bombers. The result could be

The point is that the B-52 flights have contributed to a lessening of interest by the Pentagon in the exotic fuels are the next logical atomic plane program.

This range was accomplished by refueling. And refueling is a lot easier and cheaper than powering a plane with an atomic reactor

In addition, a 16,000-mile flight is close to the physical limits of the crew. When the B-52s landed the crews were in fairly good shape but were approaching the point where dangerous fatigue sets

Another price the Air Force will have to pay for the range of atomic planes is a whole new set of air bases, or at least a costly remodeling of some present bases to handle the special needs of an Aplane. Elaborate safety precautions will have to be taken for the possibility of accidents on landing and pense in handling a homebuy- a charge of 1/2 per cent for the take-off, for example The recent discovery that a

For example, pentaborane, which is a liquid form of the light metal boron, weighs 10 per cent less than gasoline, and pound for pound delivers better than 50 per cent more heat to the engines than gasoline or jet fuel.

Cost of producing pentaborane is one of the difficulties in its general use. But that problem is being licked by improved manufacturing techniques.

Plenty of problems such as production have to be worked out
